

RHYTHMS OF ABSTRACTION

Rhythms of Abstraction

GUSTAVO BONEVARDI

SUE HEATLEY

HECTOR LEONARDI

VINCENT LONGO

AYA MIYATAKE

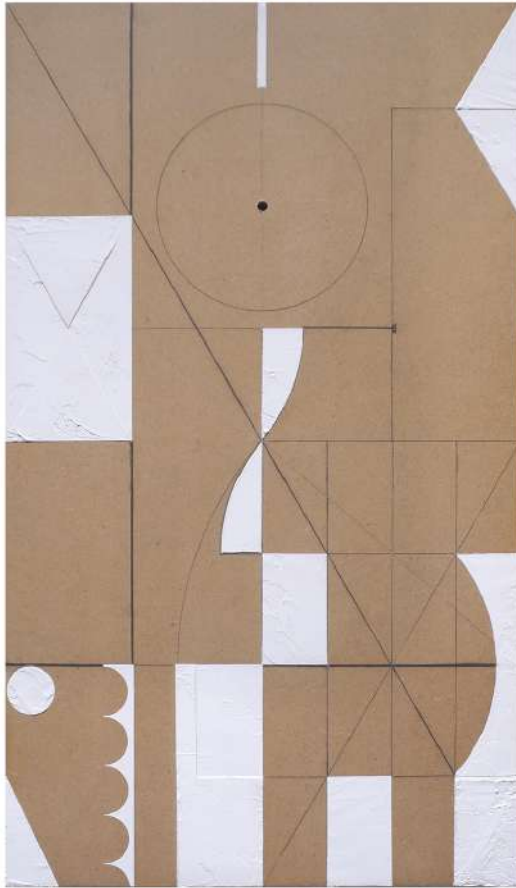

January 18 – April 12, 2020

While the gallery is temporarily closed we are working remotely.
We look forward to staying connected and are happy to share digital presentations.

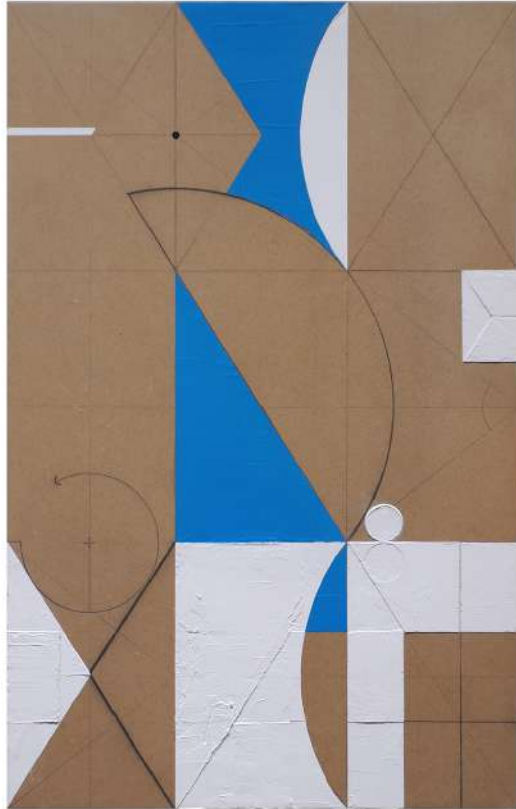

THE DRAWING ROOM

55 MAIN STREET EAST HAMPTON NY 11937 T 631.324.5016

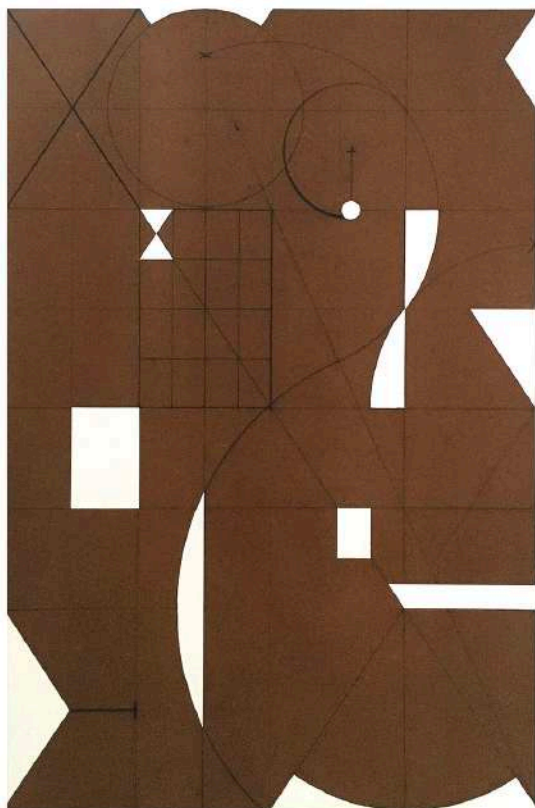

info@drawingroom-gallery.com www.drawingroom-gallery.com

Gustavo Bonevardi, U, 2019, acrylic and charcoal on board, 27 ½ x 16 x 2 inches

Gustavo Bonevardi, W, 2019, acrylic and charcoal on board, 32 x 20 ¼ x 2 inches

Gustavo Bonevardi, Q, 2019. acrylic and charcoal on board, 48 x 32 x 2 inches

Gustavo Bonevardi, R, 2019, acrylic and charcoal on board, 16 x 25 ½ x 2 inches

Gustavo Bonevardi, S, 2019, acrylic and charcoal on board, 16 x 13 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 2 inches

Sue Heatley, There and Back Again, 2019, acrylic, ink and charcoal on paper, 30 x 22 ¼ inches

Sue Heatley, The Road We Took, 2019, acrylic, ink and charcoal on paper, 30 x 22 ¼ inches

Sue Heatley, There and Back Again, 2019, acrylic, ink and charcoal on paper, 22 1/2 x 23 3/4 inches

Sue Heatley, Icy Dream, 2019, acrylic, ink and charcoal on paper, 30 ¼ x 24 inches

Hector Leonardi, Red Rising, 2019, acrylic on canvas, 36 x 36 inches

Hector Leonardi, Segreto, 2019, acrylic on canvas, 36 x 36 inches

Hector Leonardi, Pezzetti, 2019, acrylic on canvas, 36 x 36 inches

Vincent Longo, Untitled, 1972, acrylic on canvas, 24 x 22 inches

Vincent Longo, Double Square Syntax, 1978, acrylic on canvas, 24 x 48 inches

Vincent Longo, Untitled, 2006, acrylic on panel, 16 x 16 inches

Aya Miyatake, Sango-Iro, 2018, alabaster, 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches

Aya Miyatake, Danmen, 2018, alabaster, 6 ½ x 9 ½ x 8 inches

Aya Miyatake, Kiretsu, 2019, alabaster, 14 ½ x 9 ½ x 9 ½ inches

The Drawing Room in East Hampton is pleased to present Rhythms of Abstraction, a group exhibition featuring work by Gustavo Bonevardi, Sue Heatley, Hector Leonardi, Vincent Longo and Aya Miyatake. Ranging from lyrical new paintings on panel by Gustavo Bonevardi, to mixed media works on paper by Sue Heatley, layered acrylic compositions by Hector Leonardi and the precise geometric language of Vincent Longo, each body of work reveals a distinct sensibility sparked by unique sources of inspiration. Aya Miyatake's luminous alabaster sculptures contribute an atmosphere of repose amidst varied and dynamic approaches to abstraction by the four painters.

In his new body of work Gustavo Bonavardi returns to his roots in architecture, implementing traditional drawing tools of his trade and activating flat space. Working on the surfaces of wood fiber board with stencils and charcoal, he plots elegant, spare compositions in which some forms recede into deeper space, while others claim the picture plane in white or blue acrylic. The physicality of the spare mediums – gesso, acrylic and charcoal dust – embody geometric form in shards, ellipses, triangles and circles. The map of taught charcoal lines divide, define and connect the lyrical painted shapes in colors that recall the rigging, folding and billowing masts on a sailboat.

In Hector Leonardi's new paintings the vibrations of color are more refined and the palette more nuanced. His painting method is unique: Leonardi invented a delicate collage technique whereby he cuts strips of dried pigments and arranges them on canvas to create a palimpsest of layers in dazzling, soft geometries. Working on many scales, Leonardi packs each composition with an exuberant bubbling transparency of shifting light, as if focusing on new living forms under a microscope. Each of his sensuous abstractions achieves a fresh visual harmony.

Sue Heatley explores memory of place and experiments with fresh mark making techniques in her new mixed media works on paper. The aerial perspectives of these lively abstractions evoke both macro and micro examinations of environmental forces. In Remembering the Lights, the layering of white wavy shapes, undulating and dashed linear currents, and shadowy cloud forms suggest the ongoing pictorial challenge of using cartography to record evolving geological and meteorological elements in the natural world.

Vincent Longo's paintings from the 1970s highlight a transitional moment in the artist's long career when the grid served as the foundation for intricate geometric compositions that flicker with light and motion. Two rarely seen works from this period present expansive fields of interlaced and radiating shapes achieved through masking techniques drawn from the artist's experience as a printmaker. As aptly noted by New York Times writer Ken Johnson, the visual richness across Longo's oeuvre derives from "a persistent grappling with certain archetypal tensions: between the optical and the tactile; the abstract and the metaphorical; the body and the soul." The paintings on view attest to this.

In her finely chiseled alabaster sculpture, Aya Miyatake reveals the rhythms and color hidden within ancient blocks of stone. The veining and dormant luminosity come to the polished surface as she exposes the varied nature of her alabaster medium in minimal yet voluptuous forms. Miyatake's carving in white, pink, gray and amber stones captures and informs our experience of time preserved in nature.

Please email info@drawingroom-gallery.com for a price list.

Front cover: Hector Leonardi, Cool Climate, 2019, acrylic on canvas, 24 x 24 inches